APPORTIONMENT OF ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX ADJUSTMENT

There are special rules regarding the applicability of the alternative minimum tax (AMT) to REITs. Under these rules, certain items are treated differently for regular tax and AMT purposes. As a result of these special rules, an AMT adjustment item is apportioned to shareholders under section 59(d)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code. The AMT adjustment item results from net operating losses utilized by the Company to offset current year taxable income.

Each shareholder receiving distributions in 2016 is apportioned an AMT adjustment equal to 0.7543% of each distribution (i.e., for each $1 of dividend reportable by a shareholder, $0.007543 represents a positive AMT adjustment). To determine your share of the Company's positive AMT adjustment, multiply the aggregate dollar amount of your reportable 2016 dividend from the Company (the amount shown in Box 2a of the Company's 2016 Form 1099-DIV) by 0.007543.

Shareholders are encouraged to consult their tax advisor to determine the specific effect these distributions and AMT preference items may have on their individual tax situation.
