15 Describe the quantitative effect of the organizational action on the basis of the security in the hands of a U.S. taxpayer as an adjustment per share or as a percentage of old basis ➤ The 6.75% cash distribution on Line 14 above should be considered a 100% dividend distribution to the Cumulative Perpetual Convertible Preferred shareholders due to the Company’s estimated positive current earnings and profits for tax year 2015. As such, none of the amount distributed is generally anticipated to represent a return of shareholder basis. Shareholders should consult their tax advisors to determine the tax consequences of the distributions.

16 Describe the calculation of the change in basis and the data that supports the calculation, such as the market values of securities and the valuation dates ➤ The 6.75% cash distribution described on Line 14 above is completely made from the Company’s estimated earnings and profits for tax year 2015 pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code and the Regulations. As such, the distribution should be considered a 100% dividend distribution to the Convertible Preferred shareholders.
