Approach to Doing Business

Perrigo’s Code of Conduct, “We are Responsible,” sets out the Company’s expectations of its employees, and our approach to tax aligns with that. The Code contains the global standards we must follow to ensure that we uphold the Company’s core values, and it provides principles to guide our conduct and help us do what is right in all our business activities. Perrigo is committed to observing all applicable laws, rules, regulations, and reporting and disclosure requirements governing our business and transactions.

Group Tax works with the global business to ensure this tax strategy is adopted and followed consistently across the Group, with clear lines of responsibility and accountability.

Approach to Tax Planning

Our approach to tax planning is consistent with and is aligned to the Group's Code of Conduct and approach to corporate governance and risk management wherever we operate. The Group Tax team supports our businesses to achieve their commercial objectives. Perrigo supports the importance and the responsibility incumbent upon corporations to not wilfully engage in tax schemes that go against the intention of legislative authority. We conduct transactions with group companies on an arm's length basis and in accordance with relevant OECD guidelines and tax legislation of the countries where we operate.

Relationship with Tax Authorities

Perrigo is committed to complying with applicable tax laws in a responsible manner and to having open and constructive relationships with tax authorities, including Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs ("HMRC"), where possible. In line with our Code of Conduct, all dealings with tax authorities are conducted with integrity. Wherever possible and appropriate, we seek to be proactive with tax authorities to resolve material uncertain tax matters as they arise. This includes seeking professional advice and/or advance clearances from tax authorities, including HMRC, on contemplated transactions as appropriate.

Approach to Tax Risk Management

In recent years, Perrigo has increased its global footprint significantly. The Board and Audit Committee are committed to ensuring that Perrigo continues to have systems/procedures/processes and qualified tax staff to manage the impact of this increased global footprint and the increasingly complex external tax environment on the company.

Decisions on potential tax risk will be taken within the context of the company's overall business risk appetite and commitments to our shareholders. Our approach to tax risk is aligned with our wider risk management policies and compliance framework across the organisation, taking into account our brand and our corporate and social responsibility. These policies and processes include, but are not limited to, ethical and legal principles as summarized in our Code of Conduct policy to safeguard Perrigo from violating bribery, corruption, and third-party tax evasion legislation in the conduct of our business; policy around compliance with antitrust and competition laws in countries where we operate; a supplier code of conduct with respect to employment conditions, environmental responsibility, legal and ethical business practices, and facility security and inspections.

We operate an effective tax control framework to identify key tax risks and to manage those risks through appropriately designed and operated controls. We monitor and evaluate our tax controls regularly to ensure they stay fit for purpose and are adapted where necessary to address changing internal and external circumstances.

Diligent professional care and judgment will be employed to assess tax risks to arrive at well-reasoned conclusions on how the risks should be managed. Where there is uncertainty about the application or interpretation of tax law, appropriate advice evidencing the facts, risks, and conclusions may be taken from third-party advisors to support the decision-making process. Where external tax advice is sought, we ensure that the principles expressed in this document continue to be adhered to with respect to that advice.

The SVP Global Tax is responsible for driving and implementing our approach to tax as set out in this document. The Audit Committee receives regular updates from the SVP Global Tax on significant tax risks and developments and approves the approach adopted for tax provisions on material tax items in the financial statements (IFRS and US GAAP).

A dedicated tax team collaborates with their global business partners to provide advice and guidance necessary to ensure compliance, obtaining external advice where necessary. Group Tax will continuously review the approach to taxation in light of the general business environment, our business operations, tax laws and regulations, and emerging business and tax risks.
