

Liminal
BioSciences

Code of Ethics and Business Conduct

Code of Ethics and Business Conduct

Purpose and Scope

Purpose

The purpose of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct is to outline guidelines and procedures for the behavior expected of Liminal directors, officers, employees and consultants in the course of their mandate, employment or duties. They shall abide by the highest standards of ethical conduct and act honestly and in good faith in the best interests of the Company and its shareholders.

Loyalty, integrity, respect and confidentiality are values at the core of Liminal's culture and of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct. Liminal directors, officers, employees and consultants are expected to promote and contribute to these values. This Code of Ethics and Business Conduct is purposely general and destined to be supplemented and refined through evolution of Liminal's activities and the context within which they are conducted, as well as experience of specific sets of circumstances. Those outlined in this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct do not necessarily cover the entire scope of all foreseeable factual situations.

Employees, officers, directors and consultants of the Company must use sound judgment in determining the most appropriate course of action in a given set of circumstances. When in doubt, employees should check with their managers or a member of the executive team.

Conduct that may raise questions as to any of Liminal's employees, officers, directors or consultants' honesty, integrity, impartiality, reputation or activities or that could cause embarrassment to Liminal or damage its reputation is prohibited. Any activity, conduct, or transaction that is or may appear to be unethical, illegal or improper business conduct must be avoided.

Scope

This Code of Ethics and Business Conduct applies to all directors, officers, employees, consultants and relevant contracting parties (e.g. suppliers) (also referred to as the "Representatives") of Liminal BioSciences Inc. and its subsidiaries ("Liminal" or the "Company"). Compliance with this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct is a condition of employment, contract or office.

General Conduct and Behaviour

Loyalty

Liminal expects that all directors, officers, employees and consultants will act with loyalty, to protect and promote Liminal's good reputation and its interests. Liminal expects diligent attendance to one's duties, maintaining one's knowledge current and demonstrating quality and rigor in discharging of such duties attest to such loyalty.

A Representative may take part, in his, her or their personal capacity, in non-professional activities of his, her or their choice to the extent that such participation does not go against this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct, compliance with his, her or their terms of employment or contract and is not detrimental to the interests of Liminal. No Representative may express opinions on behalf of Liminal.

Ethical Conduct

Liminal culture provides the foundation for ethical conduct and behavior by directors, officers, employees and consultants. Liminal will:

- Maintain good corporate governance and adhere to all applicable laws and regulations;
- Promote and enforce a work environment free from harassment or discrimination where individuals are treated with respect and dignity;
- Provide a safe and healthy workplace, emphasizing good housekeeping and compliance with applicable laws; and
- Respect our employees' commitments and responsibilities to their families and communities.

Guidelines

All directors, officers, employees and consultants of Liminal shall:

- Uphold and comply with Liminal policies & procedures and culture;
- Strive for the success of the entire Company;
- Ensure that all information provided in all reports and documents for internal use and external audiences, including individual expense reports, will be complete, accurate, honest and timely;
- Deal honestly and fairly with the Company's customers, suppliers and competitors as well as regulatory bodies; and
- Protect the Company's assets and use them efficiently and only for Company purposes.

Strictly Prohibited Behaviour

All Representatives, and any visitors to the Company's premises or workplaces, are strictly prohibited from the following acts (even if such acts or comments are made in jest):

- Possession or use or threat of use of any type of weapon on the Company's premises or workplaces;
- Threat or actual use of violence or intimidation in the workplace;
- Willful destruction of Company property or an individual's personal property; and

- Use, possession or being under the influence of illicit substances while on duty or on Company premises.

Each Liminal director, officer, employee and consultant is accountable for observing rules of conduct that are normally accepted as standard in a business enterprise. They shall give precedence to ethical principles and obligations in their decisions and actions. They shall respect all ethical obligations deriving from applicable laws, acts and regulations and shall not condone unethical conduct.

Respectful Behaviour

Directors, officers, employees and consultants shall deal with business partners, clients, suppliers and other parties with integrity, respect, courtesy, moderation and without undue aggressiveness, negativity or arrogance.

They shall deal with their colleagues fairly, with integrity, respect, politeness and without negative prejudices, and avoid any abuse of power. Representatives shall refrain from making disparaging or discriminatory comments, innuendos, or gossip and from taking unfair advantage of others through manipulation, misrepresentation or other unfair practices.

Any remarks made by the Representatives must not be defamatory or hateful toward the Company or any of its Representatives; such acts could be considered wrongful or criminal acts.

Directors' Fiduciary Duties

Directors of the Company, in exercising their powers and discharging their duties, shall act honestly, with due care, diligence and in good faith, the whole with the best interests of the Company in mind and exercise the care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise in comparable circumstances. They shall at all times avoid placing themselves in a conflict of interest situation and remain at all times loyal to the Company. When a conflict of interest arises with a Director, he/she/they shall notify the Board of Directors of the Company and shall withhold from voting on any transaction that would place him/her/they in such a situation. This fiduciary duty also requires directors to avoid appropriation of corporate opportunities. This means that a director may not use either his/her/their position or information provided to him/her/they due to his/her/their position as director for his/her/their personal direct or indirect advantage. In a situation where a director is not in agreement with a decision taken by the majority of the Board of Directors, such individual should voice their dissidence, which should be documented in writing in the minutes.

Integrity of Books and Records and Compliance with Sound Accounting Practices

Accuracy and reliability in the preparation of all business records is of critical importance to the Company's decision-making process and its compliance with financial, legal and reporting obligations. Full, fair, accurate and timely disclosure in the reports and other documents that the Company files with its regulators and in the Company's other public communications must comply with the Company's obligations under applicable laws, including securities laws, and meet expectations of the Company's shareholders and other members of the investment community.

Preparation of Books and Records

All business records, expense reports, invoices, bills, payroll, corporate records and other similar reports must be prepared with care, accuracy and honesty. False or misleading entries in the Company's books and records are not permitted.

Recording and Reporting Financial Transactions

Financial transactions must be properly recorded in the books of account. Accounting procedures and entries must be supported by the necessary internal controls. Books and records of the Company must be available for audit purposes.

Those Representatives who are responsible for producing and managing the Company's financial reporting and internal controls systems shall ensure that:

- business transactions are properly authorized;
- records fairly and accurately reflect the transactions or occurrences to which they relate;
- records fairly and accurately reflect in reasonable detail the Company's assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses;
- the Company's accounting records do not contain any false or intentionally misleading entries;
- no transactions are intentionally misclassified as to accounts, departments or accounting periods;
- transactions are supported by accurate documentation in reasonable detail and recorded in the proper account and period;
- records comply with the International Financial Reporting Standard ("IFRS"). However, technical compliance with IFRS may not be sufficient and, to the extent that technical compliance with IFRS would render reported financial information misleading, additional disclosure will be required; and
- no information is concealed from the Chief Financial Officer, the Company's independent auditors, the Audit, Risk & Finance Committee of the Board of Directors or the Board of Directors itself.

Responsibilities of Representatives

While Representatives who produce and manage the Company's financial reporting and internal control systems are ultimately responsible for the completeness, fairness, accuracy and timeliness of such reports and communications, their ability to do so is dependent on everyone's full cooperation in their own sphere of activity. As a result, each Representative shall:

- not intentionally cause Company documents to be incorrect;

- not create or participate in the creation of any records intended to conceal anything that is improper;
- properly and promptly record or cause to be recorded all disbursements of funds;
- not make any unusual financial arrangements with a client or a supplier (such as over-invoicing or under-invoicing) for payments on their behalf to a third party;
- comply with the Company's system of internal accounting controls, disclosure controls, and related procedures; and
- co-operate with the Chief Financial Officer and the Company's independent auditors.

Representatives are encouraged to report, in accordance with section entitled "Reporting Code Violations (Whistleblowing)" of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct, untruthful or inaccurate statements or records or transactions that do not appear to serve a legitimate commercial purpose.

Conflict of Interest

All directors, officers, employees and consultants of Liminal shall:

- put the interests of the Company before their own to the extent that this does not conflict with a director's fiduciary obligations or any applicable legislation;
- avoid situations or relationships which create, or create the appearance of, a conflict of interest with those of the Company;
- choose suppliers in an objective and ethical manner, to obtain the best value for the Company;
- notify management in writing of the existence of any personal or professional relationships which may create a conflict of interest with the Company or with a customer, supplier or other outside party;
- avoid holding a significant financial interest in a supplier, customer or other party with whom the Company does business;
- refrain from giving or accepting gifts or social invitations of more than a nominal value which could create, or create the appearance of, a conflict of interest;
- not solicit gifts or social invitations from customers, suppliers or other outside parties;
- protect the Company's assets against loss, theft, abuse or unauthorized use or disposal; and
- not use the Company assets, facilities or positions to promote personal interests.

Harassment and Discrimination

Liminal will not tolerate any form of harassment or discrimination. Harassment or discrimination are any conduct that is offensive, humiliating or unduly embarrassing for anyone, that is often repetitive and deprives a person of her/his/their rights to dignity and respect, as understood under applicable laws.

Liminal promotes a working environment that is free of any form of sexual harassment. Sexual harassment means any conduct, statements, act or contact of a sexual nature that (i) is of a nature so as to humiliate or offend a person; or (ii) could reasonably lead a person to believe that the continuation of this person's employment, service or duties, a promotion or any other advantage to which he, she or they may be entitled or aspire is dependent on sexual favours.

Compliance with Laws, Rules, Regulations and Policies

All directors, officers, employees and consultants are expected to act in full compliance with all domestic and foreign laws, rules and regulations applicable to Liminal's business. Violation of applicable laws, rules or regulations or compromise of the Company's ethical expectations could result in written reprimands or other disciplinary action, including termination and criminal or civil legal proceedings where applicable.

All Representatives shall ensure at all times, that all dealings with third parties, including without limitation public officials and healthcare professionals ("HCPs") are carried in accordance with all applicable laws, statutes and regulations relating to anti-corruption and anti-bribery, including inter alia:

- the U.S. Federal and State Anti-Kickback Statutes (42 U.S.C. § 1320a-7b);
- the U.S. Federal and State False Claims Acts (31 U.S.C. §§ 3729-3733);
- the Corruption of Foreign Public Officials Act of Canada (S.C. 1998, c. 34);
- the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, as amended et seq. (15 U.S.C. §§ 78dd-1); and
- the UK Bribery Act 2010 (2010 Chapter 23)

(together the "Anti-Corruption Laws"). In the event of conflict between applicable Anti-Corruption Laws, Representatives shall comply with the most stringent applicable Anti-Corruption Laws.

Liminal is involved, from time to time, in matters which are sensitive in nature and important to the Company, its Representatives and its shareholders. Securities laws impose certain obligations on the Company regarding the disclosure of information to the public. In addition, maintaining the confidentiality of certain information is essential to preserve the value of the Company, its technology (including trade secrets), its intellectual property, and to reduce the risks and liabilities associated with disclosure of confidential information of others that is provided to us in confidence.

To comply with these laws and related regulations and mitigate such risks and liabilities, Liminal has established an Information Disclosure Policy, an Insider Trading Policy, an Anti-Corruption and Anti-Bribery Policy, and other policies and guidelines applicable to all Liminal Representatives.

The following guidelines are intended to supplement, and not replace, such related policies to facilitate their implementation at every level:

Confidentiality

Confidential information is one of the Company's most valuable assets. It is critical that all confidential information about the Company, its employees and business partners be treated with the outmost care. The Company's ability to discharge effectively its disclosure obligations under securities laws can be adversely affected by the premature or otherwise unauthorized disclosure of the Company's internal information. All Representatives, therefore, must make every effort to maintain the confidentiality of the Company's internal information. These efforts include adhering to the following guidelines.

Liminal directors, officers, employees and consultants shall:

- comply fully with the confidentiality expected of their mandate or offices, or the confidentiality provisions of their employment or consulting contract and all related confidentiality agreements;
- maintain the strict confidentiality of Liminal's confidential information and such information entrusted to Liminal by third parties;
- securely handle and store all sensitive documents containing confidential information;
- disclose such information only when appropriate permissions and controls are in place and in accordance with the Information Disclosure Policy and applicable securities laws;
- not discuss details of the Company's business or internal information with friends or family, or at social or public events, or with third parties except as may be required in the ordinary course of business and in accordance with the Information Disclosure Policy;
- refrain from obtaining confidential information of third parties (except in the normal course of business) or from possessing or retaining such information which has been inadvertently disclosed to us;
- not use Liminal confidential information or such information entrusted to Liminal by a third party for personal advantage or the advantage of others; and
- not display or work on Company confidential material in a public area, including on airplanes or in airports.

All Representatives shall further ensure that all personal data and protected health information collected by, or on behalf of Liminal, is collected, stored, used and retained in compliance with applicable privacy laws. Personal data may only be collected for a legitimate purpose and used as necessary to accomplish the legitimate purpose for which it was collected or other applicable legal bases. Personal data may only be retained for as long as necessary to accomplish such purpose or other applicable legal bases. Any personal data incidents shall be communicated to Liminal's Data Protection Committee at dataprotection@liminalbiosciences.com.

To comply with applicable privacy laws and related regulations and to mitigate any associated risks and liabilities, Liminal has established a Privacy Policy, and other policies and guidelines applicable to all Liminal Representatives.

Designated Spokesperson

Representatives who are not authorized spokespersons may not respond under any circumstances to inquiries from the investment community or the media unless specifically asked to do so by an authorized spokesperson. All such inquiries must be referred to the persons designated for this purpose in the Information Disclosure Policy.

Media and Public Inquiries

It is extremely important that any message to the public be accurate, consistent and authorized by the relevant spokesperson at Liminal in accordance with the Information Disclosure Policy. All employees, directors, officers and consultants must be aware of, and adhere to, Liminal's guidelines on communicating with the public through the media (including social media), press releases, promotional materials or other means. Any requests for information from Liminal by an outside party should be immediately referred to one of the Senior Executive Officers.

Trading of Securities

Liminal directors, officers, employees and consultants shall not trade in any Company securities or other securities based on insider information which is not generally known and unavailable to the general public. The Insider Trading Policy sets out prohibitions of certain trades of Liminal's securities and other guidelines to be complied with if contemplating a trade in the Company's securities.

The above is intended as an overview and practical guide to matters of confidentiality and insider trading, and all directors, officers, employees and consultants are directed to the specific provisions of the Information Disclosure Policy and Insider Trading Policy on these matters.

Anti-Trust and Fair Competition

In a competitive marketplace, Liminal understands the importance of complying with all applicable anti-trust and fair competition laws. Anti-trust and fair competition laws are meant to prevent restraints on trade or the abuse of a dominant market position, and a competitive marketplace ensures that the greatest benefit can be realized by both consumers of healthcare products and services (e.g. patients) and suppliers of those products/services. Each employee is expected to understand and comply with anti-trust and fair competition laws and not to enter into business contracts or engage in activities that violate, or give the appearance of violating, these laws.

Violations of these laws by any Liminal's Representatives carry severe penalties for both the Company and the individual depending on the severity of the violation. Anti-trust and fair competition laws are complex; therefore, Representatives must contact the Legal Department for approval of any business practice conducted on behalf of the Company that may involve an interpretation of these laws.

Donations and Contributions

Charitable Contributions

While charitable contributions to the community can make a difference, Representatives must ensure that these contributions are provided in accordance with Liminal policies and applicable laws and regulations. If a charitable contribution is to be made by Liminal, Representatives must complete the form attached hereto as Schedule "A" and submit it to the General Counsel for prior approval. Questions with regards to charitable contributions may be directed to the General Counsel.

Political Contributions and Activities

Liminal encourages its Representatives to engage in political activities, such as the right to vote. However, it is imperative that all Representatives understand that these engagements should not be conducted on behalf of Liminal or mistaken as Liminal taking a stance to support or endorse any candidate or political party. Such activities must also be done on personal time and without the involvement of any Liminal resources. Questions with regards to political contributions and activities shall be directed to the General Counsel.

Intellectual Property

Liminal conducts its business in a field where intellectual property, information regarding technologies and trade secrets constitute essential aspects of its business and require the implementation and enforcement of protective measures to preserve the value of such business.

In accordance with Liminal's Intellectual Property Policy, the results of work performed by an employee in the course of his, her or their employment, including the development and improvement of its confidential and proprietary information are for the sole benefit of Liminal and the assignees of the employees' rights. A director, officer, employee or consultant may not use such proprietary information for purposes other than those strictly related to his, her or their duties and may not use Liminal assets or time for purposes other than those required by their duties. Liminal directors, officers, employees and consultants shall refer to the specific provisions of the Intellectual Property Policy on these matters.

Social Networks

The use of social networks by the Representatives is subject to all of the Company's relevant policies such as the Social Media Terms of Use and the Information Disclosure Policy.

Compliance Program

Compliance Program and Leadership

Liminal has adopted, or will adopt, policies, procedures, training programs and mechanisms to promote an atmosphere of open, honest and ethical communication throughout Liminal.

Monitoring compliance allows the investigation of any allegations of non-compliance with our policies and/or applicable laws and regulations and the opportunity to correct any systems or discipline employees associated with such non-compliance. These audits and reviews allow Liminal to uphold the ethical principles described above. All of these processes and systems and any similar processes or systems Liminal may adopt in the future constitute the Compliance Program.

Training

Liminal encourages its employees to keep up with any additions, changes, removals or implementations of laws, regulations, guidance and standards as it is imperative to ensure that we perform our operations compliantly. In order to inform its employees of such changes, Liminal may conduct trainings annually, quarterly and on an ad-hoc basis. Attendance at all training sessions is mandatory.

Reporting Code Violations (Whistleblowing)

Liminal directors, officers, employees and consultants have a responsibility to report promptly any conduct or proposed conduct that they reasonably believe to be a violation of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct. The Company has adopted a Whistleblowing Policy applicable to the reporting of any such conduct or proposed conduct and investigation of a reported incident. Representatives shall refer to the Whistleblowing Policy for greater details on how to report, who to report to, confidentiality and investigation procedures.

Liminal does not consider reporting a known or suspected violation of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct to be an act of 'disloyalty' and it is against Company policy to retaliate against any employee who reports what he or she reasonably believes to be a violation or suspected violation of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct. This means that employees will not be disciplined, fired or discriminated against in any way for voicing concern about a violation or potential violation so long as the employee acts honestly and in good faith. Any reprisal or retaliation against the employee who has in good faith reported a known or suspected violation of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct is itself cause for disciplinary action, including termination.

Sanctions and Consequences

Violation of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct is a serious matter that could subject Liminal or its Representatives to legal liability and furthermore, in the case of Representatives who are employees, disciplinary sanctions including termination.

In addition, conduct by a director or officer which represents a material departure from this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct may constitute a material change triggering the material change reporting requirements of applicable securities laws.

Monitoring and Waivers

The Company's Human Resources department will monitor the compliance of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct and will report any material breach of same to the HR and Corporate Governance Committee, if and when appropriate.

Where appropriate, either the HR and Corporate Governance Committee or the Audit, Risk & Finance Committee of the Board of Directors may grant waivers of the enforcement of any provision of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct.

Contacts for the Purposes of Waivers of this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct:

The Chair of the Audit, Risk & Finance Committee and/or the Chair of HR and Corporate Governance Committee of the Board of Directors:

440 Boul. Armand-Frappier, suite 300
Laval, Quebec H7V 4B4
Canada
Tel: 450-781-0115

SCHEDULE "A"

Charitable Contribution Form

Date:
Representative' name:
Title:
Entity:
Beneficiary's full name:
Beneficiary's address:
Amount of the donation:		Currency:
Reason of the donation:

Representative's signature:		Date:
General Counsel's signature		Date: