- Implementing Management Changes: In 2004, first new CEO appointed outside the founding family, and set a mission to revive the toymaker through fiscal responsibility and creativity.
- Rationalizing Costs: Aggressively cut costs including closing of foreign outposts and inventory rationalization.
- Focusing on Core Product: Focused on core products by selling theme parks and motion picture division, and shutting down its video game business. Proceeds from sales used to pay down debt. Simplified its product set and focused on diversifying product reach.
- Reinvigorating Creative: Focused on bringing new themes and characters to the product and expanding reach to new regions and age groups. Partnered with multiple studios to produce movies and expanded its brand to consumer interactions by opening >100 brand concept stores globally.
